

National Communications Director
All Voting is Local
The Leadership Conference Education Fund
Washington, DC

The Leadership Conference Education Fund and its project Access Democracy seek a National Communications Director for All Voting is Local, a campaign to defend and expand access to the ballot by identifying and fighting voter suppression at the local level.

The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, a 501(c)(4) organization, is the country's oldest and largest civil and human rights coalition of more than 200 national organizations. The Leadership Conference has coordinated national advocacy efforts on behalf of every major civil rights law since 1957. The All Voting is Local campaign is a collaborative effort of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation (ACLU), the American Constitution Society (ACS), the Campaign Legal Center (CLC), the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law (Lawyers' Committee), and The Education Fund and its project, Access Democracy. All Voting is Local offers an integrated approach to identifying, preventing and remedying voting barriers, by pinpointing opportunities to expand access to the ballot, and improving how elections are run. Building upon the work of national, state, and local voting rights organizations, the campaign seeks to strengthen local activist networks by equipping them with the tools and experience to determine how election administration practices are expanding -- or suppressing -- access to the ballot.

This individual will lead communications strategy development and implementation in support of the All Voting is Local campaign. The National Communications Director will serve as the primary spokesperson for the campaign, oversee day-to-day media relations efforts; provide strategic direction for the campaign; and assist state staff in developing goals for, and support efforts to advance, the campaign's objectives. The National Communications Director works in collaboration with partner organizations and reports to the All Voting is Local Campaign Director. The position is based in Washington, D.C.

Ideal candidates for this position will hold a Bachelor's degree with 5 to 7 years' experience in media relations, communications, or related area, as it relates to public affairs. On-the record experience as a spokesperson, well-developed skills in building and maintaining media relationships, experience working with media outlets at national, regional, and local levels. They must also have experience working with diverse audiences, including elected officials, community leaders, coalition partners and the public.

To apply, e-mail resume, cover letter detailing your fit with the position's responsibilities to: personnel@civilrights.org with National Communications Director in the subject line. Only applications submitted by email will be considered.
