LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE ISSUES VOTING RECORD FOR 100TH CONGRESS

-- LCCR Applauds The 100th Congress For One Of The Most Successful And Productive Civil Rights Congresses In Our Nation's History

WASHINGTON, D.C., OCTOBER 27--The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a coalition of 180 national organizations representing minorities, women, disabled persons, labor, religious groups, and older Americans, seeking to advance civil rights through enactment and enforcement of federal legislation, released today its Voting Record for the 100th Congress.

The biennial report card reflects the coalition's concerns for civil rights and social justice legislation. Among the issues included in the current Voting Record are the Robert Bork Supreme Court nomination, the Civil Rights Restoration Act, the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, the Japanese-American Redress Act, the immigration legalization program, pay equity, disability rights, programs for low-income children & families, the Racial Justice Act, minimum wage legislation, the Hate Crimes Statistics Act and the Parental and Medical Leave Act.

In releasing the report, Ralph G. Neas, Executive Director of the Conference, stated that "while the Reagan Administration continued to compile the worst civil rights record of any administration in several decades, the 100th Congress established a remarkably good record on civil rights. Indeed, the 100th Congress was one of the most successful and productive Congresses in our Nation's history. Although there were a couple of disappointments, the bipartisan congressional majority on civil rights passed a number of significant and historic measures and, just as important, once again prevented the Radical Right from enacting any major items on its civil rights legislative agenda."

Fourteen Senators and 106 Representatives compiled a perfect voting record while 3 Senators and 17 Representatives voted against the Conference position on every key voted tabulated. Comparison figures for the 99th Congress show that 14 Senators and 107 Representatives scored 100 percent, while 11 Senators and 57 Representatives compiled zero ratings.

We note that this Voting Record indicates that Senator Dan Quayle had a rating of 15 and Senator Lloyd Bentsen had a rating of 69.

Full Text of the Statement by Ralph G. Neas

The 100th Congress was one of the most successful and productive Congresses in our Nation's history. Four congressional accomplishments merit special attention:

- The defeat of the Robert Bork Supreme Court nomination;
- The enactment of the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, the most significant and dramatic improvement in civil rights law in the past two decades. This historic measure provides a strong and effective enforcement mechanism for the Fair Housing Act and extends coverage of the Act to disabled persons and to families with children. This is the first time a civil rights law has provided coverage to persons with disabilities outside of federally assisted programs and the first time ever that families with children have been covered by federal civil rights law;
- The enactment, over President Reagan's veto, of the Civil Rights Restoration Act. This legislation overturns the Grove City Supreme Court decision and prohibits the federal funding of discrimination against minorities, women, disabled persons, and older Americans; and
- The enactment of the Japanese-American Redress Act. This long overdue legislation apologizes to Japanese-Americans interned during World War II and authorizes payments of $20,000 to surviving internees.

In addition to these achievements, the Congress in overwhelming bipartisan agreement funded the Legal Services Corporation and once again repudiated the reconstituted and discredited Civil Rights Commission by reducing substantially its appropriations and earmarking how those funds could be spent. Also, the House of Representatives passed the Pay Equity Bill, the Hate-Crimes Statistics Act, and a House resolution protecting House employees from job discrimination. And it should be noted that 66 Senators and 145 House members signed a friend of the court brief asking the Supreme Court not to reverse the 1976 Runyon decision which prohibits intentional racial discrimination in the making and enforcing of private contracts.

One major disappointment of the 100th Congress was the failure of the House and the Senate to pass key items on the "family agenda." However, a solid foundation has been laid for the 101st Congress, and there is no question that family issues like the Family and Medical Leave Act and child care legislation will rank high on next year's civil rights agenda.

Overall, Congress has compiled a very good civil rights record during the Reagan presidency. Indeed, the past eight years have been a bipartisan reaffirmation of civil rights and a bipartisan rejection of the extremism of the Reagan Administration. In addition to the accomplishments of the 100th Congress, some of the successes of the 97th, 98th, & 99th Congresses should be mentioned: the 1982 Voting Rights Act Extension, the Martin Luther King Holiday Bill, the two laws on South African Sanctions, improvement in the Age Discrimination in Employment Claims Assistance Act, three laws overturning Supreme Court decisions which had weakened disability statutes, enactment of major sections of the Economic Equity Act, the Voting Accessibility for Disabled and Senior Citizens Act, the defeat of the William Bradford Reynolds' nomination to be Associate Attorney General, the effort to preserve the Executive Order on Affirmative Action, and the defeat of legislation to strip the Federal Courts of Jurisdiction over certain constitutional issues.

As successful as the legislative campaigns have been over the past eight years, an inordinate amount of time, effort, and resources have been devoted to refighting civil rights battles that were won in the 1960's and 1970's. Consequently, while the accomplishments of the past several decades have been preserved and a number of important initiatives have been enacted, the unfinished agenda of the civil rights movement, economic justice, has largely been ignored. And that has been a profound tragedy. Hopefully, there will be a less confrontational atmosphere between the branches of government in the coming years and we will be able to address more comprehensively the problems of poverty that plague our Nation.

Absent a tipping of the ideological balance of the Supreme Court, I am confident that we will continue to move forward with the civil rights agenda. Ironically, the lasting legacy of Edwin Meese and William Bradford Reynolds may be that they served as a catalyst for the reaffirmation of our Nation's bipartisan commitment to equal opportunity for all our citizens.
